Question paper leak: KPSC postpones FDA written exam

- Over 3.74 lakh candidates, who were to write exam for just 1,100 posts, disappointed
- Some rural candidates arrive at centres in city on time; Six kingpins nabbed in B'luru

City Police personnel deployed at Maharani's Women's Arts College in city this morning to inform candidates about the cancellation of today's exam.

Mysuru, Jan.24 (MTY&DM)- Totally unaware of the fact that the KPSC (Karnataka Public Service Commission) had cancelled the written exam for appointment of First Division Assistants (FDAs) in various Government Departments, late last evening following leak of question papers at Bengaluru, some candidates arrived at almost all the 49 exam centres across the city on time. The exam was supposed to commence at 10 am. The candidates returned a disappointed lot after learning from the security personnel and the Police and also getting confirmation from the authorities that the exam was cancelled and the KPSC would announce the new date of the exam shortly.

A majority of the students, who arrived at the centres — which included Maharani's College, Maharaja's College, Teresian College, Mahajana College, Sadvidya College and Vidyavardhaka College among others — were from rural and distant parts of the district, who could not learn about the exam cancellation either personally or through electronic media or through other means of communication.

They seemed shocked to learn that the KPSC had cancelled the exam at the last minute due to question paper leak and could hardly believe the news, which they learnt only this morning upon arrival at their respective exam centres.

Yoga Study Centre planned in city

Mysuru, Jan.24 (MTY&SSV)- GSS Yogic Research Foundation is planning to establish Yoga Study Centre in Mysuru to take yoga to every house and for international recognition, said D. Srihari, Founder of the Foundation.

Addressing a press meet at Patrakarthara Bhavan here recently, he said a number of programmes have been planned under the aegis of Mysuru Yoga Foundation to promote yoga and ayurveda in international level. One among them has been setting up of Yoga Study Centre. This would be brought to the notice of Government. "There are 400-plus yoga schools in city and each one has different syllabus. Plan has been chalked out to bring all of them under one umbrella and make every citizen practice yoga. Endeavour is to open more number of yoga schools to impart training. There is a need to include yoga as a study subject," he added.

Steps have been taken to link yoga with ayurveda and to start a website to popularise Mysuru yoga across the globe, he said.

Yoga instructors, Ganesh and Roopashri were present.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

GUNG-HO FOR GOBAR: The cows are coming home, literally. A recent newspaper ad announced India's — and the world's — first cowdung paint. The official launch of the paint — which is billed as being anti-bacterial, anti-fungal, non-toxic, odourless, and thermally insulating — was attended by a menage of mantrijis and other bigwigs.

Cowdung paint? Was this yet another ploy by gau rakshaks and others noted for their cow-towing to everything bovine? Was cowdung paint yet another whitewash job to extol the many virtues of gau mata, whose by-products, such as urine, are said to have miraculous medicinal and other beneficial properties?

Then I recalled my Nani's ancestral house in Kutch Mandvi which we would visit each year from Calcutta where we lived. Mandvi was a speck on the map, with a surging sea on one side and the bone-white sand dunes of the Thar desert on the other. In its narrow lanes, huge bulls, black as midnight, lounged indolently in the blaze of noontide.

There was no electricity, no taps or running water in homes. The outside world seemed remote, an imagined place less substantial than the flickering shadows thrown on the walls by the smoky light of kerosene lanterns.

Nani's house, enclosed by a walled courtyard in which an ancient banyan grew, was built on three floors. On the first floor was a small room the walls and floor of which were smoothly plastered with what I first took to be clay. When I discovered that it was in fact clay, but clay mixed with liberal dollops of cowdung, my city-bred sensibilities were revolted.

Dung, from a cow or anywhere else? How yucky! But I soon came to realise that it was the most comfortable room in the house. Far from giving of an offensive smell the cowdung plaster exuded a hint of sun-dried straw, clean and crisp. Through a process of natural climate control, the room remained cool on the hottest day, warm on the coldest night. It became my favourite haunt.

The ad for cowdung paint shows that in some ways Nani's generation was far ahead of its time. Indeed, Nani's home décor product in its newly-advertised avatar might prove an international hit, enhancing India's stature in the globalised scheme of things. Or, better still, the gobarised scheme of things.

Fake books as props for wanna-be online influencers

Paris: French Instagram superstar Maddy Burciaga has come under fire for allegedly promoting fake expensive books are the perfect props to decorate one's home. In an Instagram story, the 27-year-old shows off fake copies of Chanel and Yves Saint Laurent books, adding that the real books are quite expensive in bookshops and boutiques. But if you're not actually interested in reading the books, but just want to show off to your followers, you can just get these blocks of cardboard that look like books, for just a fraction of the price. Her promotional campaign didn't go as planned.

Burciaga, who rose to fame after appearing on a number of French television shows, like "The Angels", or "The Villa of Broken Hearts", commands a following of over 2.4 million people on Instagram alone, so her Insta story quickly went viral, and garnered generally negative reactions.

Belgrade: From making her body parts invisible, to transforming herself into a variety of fictional characters, there's no optical illusion Mirjana 'Kika' Milosevic can't pull off with her makeup skills. Kika Milosevic has never been interested in expressing her talent on conventional canvases. As a child, she would crawl under tables and draw on the backside of them, as well as on the doors and walls of her home. As an adult, Kika chose her own body as a canvas, using makeup and body paint to create the most stunning optical illusions.

Kika Milosevic was the first person in Serbia to do body art illusions. After honing her skills, by practicing for hours on end and watching online tutorials, Mirjana's art started going viral online. This won her the respect of makeup artists the world over, as well various paid work in the special effects and entertainment sectors.

Close shave for Bengaluru family as car catches fire

Car speeds over horse gram and ragi crops that were laid on the road for threshing by farmers

K.R. Pet, Jan. 24 (OSR)- A family from Bengaluru had a miraculous escape after the car in which they were travelling caught fire when the vehicle speeded over horse gram and ragi crops that were laid on the road for threshing by farmers in K.R. Pet yesterday.

The tradition of threshing paddy, horse gram and ragi crops on roads to separate the crop from the sheaves cause accidents on roads and Highways. As harvesting season reaches its peak in January, farmers use main and interior roads to thresh harvested crop in order to obtain the grains.

Threshing is the process of loosening the edible part of grain from the husks and straw to which it is attached. However, as the crops are laid on the road, vehicles moving on the crops generate great heat when it comes in contact with fast-rotating tyres. In the process, the vehicle catches fire due to the friction between the vehicle tyre and the asphalted road.

Yesterday's incident was reported near the famous Bhoovarahaswamy Temple at Kallahalli village in K.R. Pet. Rajagopal, a resident of Mahalakshmi Layout in Bengaluru had come to the Temple in a car along with his family for darshan in the afternoon. As the car neared a place that is two to three kilometres from the Temple, it caught fire as the wheels speeded on the horse gram and ragi crops that were laid on the road.

Unaware of the fire, the car continued to travel on the road. Passers-by and a few farmers, who observed the flames coming out of the vehicle, chased the car on their bikes and alerted the family. Rajagopal, his wife, daughter and mother immediately got out of the vehicle. The fire spread instantly as the car stopped and it was a close shave for the family.

Though the villagers alerted the Fire and Emergency Services Department, the vehicle was completely destroyed. The fire engine was able to douse the fire later. A case has been registered at K.R. Pet Rural Police Station.

It may be recalled here that following a series of accidents due to paddy and ragi threshing on roads, Mysuru Police had warned farmers not to use the roads for farming activity. But despite warning, they continue to indulge in this activity as it saves labour costs.

Road Rage case

Three Police teams formed to nab accused; KSRTC employees seek protection

Mysuru, Jan. 24 (RK&KS)- Following a biker stabbing a KSRTC bus driver in a Road Rage incident near Hosaramanahalli (Bilikere Police limits) on Mysuru-Hassan Road on Thursday evening, three Police teams led by a Sub-Inspector has been formed to nab the accused, said Superintendent of Police (SP) C.B. Ryshyanth.

The SP, who has taken the incident seriously, has formed the teams to track down the accused based on the registration number of the bike and the Police teams have already begun their investigation.

KSRTC employees seek protection: Meanwhile, KSRTC employees have urged the Police and the Government to provide protection to drivers and conductors. They said that they were facing such threats since many years and had also submitted a memorandum to the DC&IGP seeking protection a few years back, but nothing has been done in this regard.

It may be recalled that the KSRTC bus (KA-45-F-0007), driven by Venkatesh with K.T. Harish Kumar as the conductor, left Mysuru to Hassan with passengers and as the driver took a turn on Hunsur Road and was proceeding on Hassan Road, a cow suddenly came on to the road forcing the bus driver to swerve slightly to the right side to avoid hitting the animal, which irked three persons, triple riding on a bike, coming on the opposite direction.

The bikers, who took a U-turn, followed the bus and forced the driver to stop the bus at Hosaramanahalli, coming under Bilikere Police limits. The bikers then began to abuse driver Venkatesh, who got down from the bus to explain.

But suddenly, one of the riders, caught hold of him, thrashed and stabbed him multiple times in the presence of villagers and passengers. The riders later fled from the spot. The driver was admitted to a private hospital in city, where he is said to be out of danger.

Miscreants brutally assault cab driver

B.M. Sunil

Suntikoppa (Kodagu), Jan. 24- A cab driver, who had taken passengers to a wedding at Poovaiah Colony in Kanbailu village near Suntikoppa, has been brutally assaulted by miscreants on Wednesday night.

The seriously injured cab driver has been identified as B.M. Sunil of Suntikoppa.

After taking the passengers to the village, Sunil had parked the car on the road side, when a group of five miscreants climbed and sat on the bonnet of the car. When Sunil objected to this, they assaulted him brutally with stones and sticks injuring him seriously. He was admitted to a hospital at Madikeri by local residents. Sunil, in his complaint, has stated that his gold chain and watch has gone missing during the incident.

Jurisdictional Police, who have registered a case, have taken Sachin, Manoj and Yatish of Molur village into custody.

Missing persons case on the rise: A senior citizen's concern

Sir,

While going through "Star of Mysore" paper daily, it is noticed that almost everyday, there are two or three persons missing, irrespective of their age and gender.

Being a senior citizen, it is really scaring and makes us very unsafe on the roads of Mysuru.

We are also not aware of the missing persons' whereabouts once the news appears — whether the authorities concerned are taking steps to prevent this or not, is also not clear.

Hence, this letter is an effort to alert the authorities concerned in tracing the missing persons and unite them with their families.

Love in the time of COVID-19

The world, according to reports, learnt of Coronavirus disease rather late by few months when people began to die of the scourge not knowing how to treat such patients. China was considered the culprit and those who travelled to that country became the carries of the virus. And China with its booming economy, there is hardly any country that did not have contact with it.

By March 2020, it had already spread all over the world and the period of lockdown began with the world desperately looking for a cure. It decided "Prevention is better than cure" and banned international flights and travel. The effective preventive measure was recommended and even enforced — wear mask covering your nose and mouth, keep social distance and keep washing your hands with sanitisers. And the elders stay in isolation at home for ultimate safety.

Now we are in the month of January 2021 with a slightly sanguine world where in many countries the pandemic cases have been steadily coming down and most important development is the availability of vaccine as a preventive medicine. It is already being given to people in many countries and the response is encouraging. Another sanguine development is the absence of Donald Trump as the President of America! Though many may not agree, specially the white supremacists!! Let it be.

Thus in the prevailing situation about the pandemic we may reflect on the role of LOVE as a sentiment in times of this pandemic. Looking back one will realise that the impact of this Coronavirus, which did not discriminate between different countries in spreading its scourge, has been different to different sections of the people — working class, the elders, retired and the sick and ailing patients with other types of diseases.

It is said the element of fear of contracting Coronavirus was so severe that non-Corona patients began to avoid going to their regular doctors in the hospitals and preferred getting their prescriptions or doctor's opinion on cell phone — SMS, WhatsApp or e-mail ! Some doctors obliged, some collected payments through Google Pay or PhonePe and some never responded. As for hospitals, they continued to remind their old patients of the services available and how it can be availed. But where humanity and LOVE abound hope blooms.

I am lucky. Since 1993, I have been a hospital bird and could come close to many doctors. And all of them were responsive during this past year of pandemic. However, there are difficult patients too who are too demanding from the doctors, some even cantankerous, expecting a miracle cure. Of course, doctors know how to put them in their place in a most gentle way. Doctors by and large love patients who co-operate with them rather than become guides to them after going through the internet, Google. That is probably when a doctor begins to love the patient's money rather than the patient !

Besides the healthcare concerns, be as they may, there are other issues a person had to face during the pandemic. During lockdown, the problem of getting locked-down in our own house. Mercifully for family persons it is not solitary confinement. Even so, these periods taught us the importance of freedom of movement.

The past one year has been an year for Social Media that really went berserk, pandering to those who were desperate to pass time in this time of pandemic with all kinds of WhatsApps, messages and advice, suggestions and more. One Social Media message in the early days of Coronavirus has divided the population into categories — children, teenagers, youngsters, adults, seniors, those who are above 60, above 70 and above 80 and beyond. And it prescribed what kind of preventive steps should be taken by each category apart from the standard protocol for all — wear the mask covering your nose, keep social distance and keep sanitising your hands. So each category began to get tons of LOVE from the other categories by way of monitoring each other to ensure the protocol is observed — to the point of irritation. But Love of life supersedes all irritations!

I am told of instances where employers have displayed great human quality by accommodating their employees who had special problems during these periods — whether in the matter of payment of salaries or in enabling them to adjust to the changed work culture and working time. Of course, there were some employers who took due or undue advantage of the pandemic, exploited the employees or denied the comfort during the difficult days.

I know of a few employers who took back to service those who had resigned fearing the Coronavirus but later wanted to join service due to domestic financial constraints or due to the long period of life in confinement — boring and depressing. That is the Love the noble employers have shown to the fellow human beings in times of this pandemic.

I have seen and heard of many neighbours, of families without anyone to help them to get ration, medicine or even medicare, voluntarily going to the help of such families. That is LOVE in the times of Coronavirus.

And there are cases where those who have fallen passionately in Love with each other but could not wait for Coronavirus to go away soon, either running away or getting their parents to agree to conduct the marriages under duress. The protocol laid down by the Government for such marriages is observed more in its breach than in its compliance. Indeed, after the happy marriage, some guests were reported testing positive for the Coronavirus. But then one attends such functions where people gather in large numbers at his or her own risk. It is here destiny comes to play !

In spite of taking every care some get COVID-19, some survive and some do not. And in spite of being careless about COVID-19 protocol, nothing happen to some. Destiny?

A friend who visited me a couple of days back gave me a prolonged 'discourse' on destiny when the subject of Coronavirus came up in our homily conversation.

According to what he had heard there are two kinds of Destiny. One, Ultimate Destiny, another Conditional Destiny. Animals are guided by Ultimate Destiny because they cannot make or take a decision as they do not have Free Will. But a human being (man) is endowed by nature (God) a Free Will with which he can take a decision about his life. Wise-men make use of this Free Will. When a difficult decision is to be taken, he will neither choose the extreme right nor the extreme left. He would choose the Middle Path until he finds one of the other paths is conducive. Of course, it is the advice of Lord Buddha also, who always emphasised on following the Middle Path for a happy, contented life.

In my office reception, I have hung a photo of Swami Vivekanada with a message printed at the bottom — You are the Master of your Destiny (ನಿನ್ನ ಬಾಳಿನ ಶಿಲ್ಪಿ ನೀನೇ).

In sum, it can be said that despite Coronavirus, with our Free Will, just as a ship in the rough seas charters its course, we too can manage and come out of the scourge of Coronavirus. All that is needed is LOVE for yourself and LOVE for the humanity.

Question paper leak

Many of them were heard whispering that all their preparations for this crucial exam to enter Government service had gone waste with the sudden postponement of the exam.

The KPSC was scheduled to conduct exam for General Kannada, General English and General Proficiency papers in two sessions today at 49 centres across the city. More than 25,000 candidates had registered for exam at city centres, which were completely sanitised as per COVID-19 protocol. Even the city Police had issued prohibitory orders in 200 mts. radius around all the exam centres from 6 am till 6 pm today, for ensuring smooth conduct of the exam.

Meanwhile, the compulsory Kannada paper was held smoothly yesterday at three centres in the city.

More than 3.74 lakh candidates had registered for the exam in the State for recruitment to just over 1,100 FDA posts.

Six nabbed

The FDA exam was scheduled to be held at hundreds of centres across the State today. Following a tip off that the exam papers had got leaked, with some persons trying to sell them to candidates for huge sums of money, the Bengaluru CCB Police raided a spot at Ullala in Bengaluru and arrested six persons, when they were trying to sell photocopies of question papers.

Police have seized copies of question papers, Rs.24 lakh cash and three vehicles used for transporting leaked papers. Two of the arrested have been identified as Rachappa and Chandru, while Police are yet to disclose identity of four others.

Soon after the seizure of question papers, the Police sent them to KPSC for confirmation whether the seized papers were the original ones or not. KPSC, after a check, confirmed that the papers are in fact the actual ones meant for Jan.24 exams for FDA recruitment, following which CCB Joint Commissioner of Police Sandeep Patil informed the matter to KPSC Secretary G. Satyavathi, who in turn, ordered postponement of the exam.

In a press release issued on Saturday (Jan.23), Satyavathi said that KPSC written exam for recruitment to FDA posts that was scheduled for Jan.24 has been postponed due to inevitable reasons as the papers got leaked and that a new exam date will be announced.

Soon, park plants to get recycled water

Plans afoot by Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board

Mysuru, Jan. 24 (RKB& SSV)- Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board (KUWS&DB) has drawn an ambitious plan of utilising recycled drainage water in public parks and for other non-drinking water purposes in city, said H.V. Rajeev, Chairman of Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA).

He was speaking after inaugurating Regional Conference of Region-3 organised by Lions International Clubs District 317-A with the theme 'Lake Development-State Prosperity' in city this morning.

Rajeev expressed his grave concern over the disappearance of natural water bodies owing to urbanisation and said human beings have disturbed nature's cycle by changing water routes. In the name of development, man has systematically damaged catchment areas of lakes resulting in rain water flowing into sea or ocean instead of natural waterholes. It was happy to note that Lions Clubs have successfully rejuvenated a neglected lake in city and has done what the Government agencies should have done.

Sharing his experiences in environment protection, he said an organisation started by him to protect environment, has so far cleaned a number of lakes and planted saplings as part of 'Laksha Vruskha Abhiyana.' As many as 5,000 saplings planted by them on Ring Road, Manandawadi Road and Nanjangud Road have grown taller and giving fresh air to citizens.

Varuna Lake polluted

Rajeev said untreated sewage water is released into Varuna Lake from neighbouring areas without understanding its impact on water. The State Government has introduced boating and adventure spots there to promote tourism. Polluted water was also a threat to fish. The authorities concerned must take immediate measures to check inflow of untreated sewage into lake by setting up treatment plants. Need of the hour was to understand the importance of protecting natural waterholes without polluting them as they help in rejuvenation of underground water table.

Ln. Jayakumar, Regional Chairman, Region-3, said all the clubs grouped together and took up Ayynorakatte in Alanahalli for rejuvenation with the support of NSS Students of MIT College. Members of Lions Clubs and students jointly worked for days together and cleaned the tank at a cost of Rs.1.75 lakh. Through Shramadhan, they have de-silted the Kalyani, removed weeds, put concrete benches, planted saplings and installed the gate. Now, it was a feast for eyes to see the rejuvenated tank, he added. Ln. Dr. G.A. Ramesh, District Governor, Ln. Prasanna N. Gowda, Ln. N. Jayram, Ln. M.V. Nandish, Ln. S. Nageshmurthy, Ln. H.V. Prakash Babu, Ln. L.V. Srinivas, Ln. G. Shivakumar, Ln. Anuradha Nandish, and others were present.

It may be mentioned, recently Minister S.T. Somashekar inaugurated a fountain that functions with recycled waste water at Subbarao Park in Niveditanagar.

Cleanliness awareness through wall paintings

MCC hopes to score well in Swachh Survekshan-2021

Mysuru, Jan. 24 (PM&BCT)- As part of bringing in a behavioural change in maintaining cleanliness in city, the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) had organised a wall painting competition this morning to spread Swachh Bharat Mission messages in all its nine zones. This competition is part of the MCC's efforts to bag the Cleanest City of India title in the on-going Swachh Survekshan-2021.

The MCC intends to create awareness on cleanliness through Information, Education and Communication (IEC) campaign. The Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs (MoHUA) has released the Swachh Survekshan-2021 tool-kit that has a set of parameters for ranking cities.

It has given weightage to the city's beautification drive and sustainability. Under the direct observation category, MoHUA has allotted 200 marks for wall paintings drawn on flyovers, public walls with the involvement of citizens. Such paintings will be directly inspected by the Ministry.

In Zone-9, the competition was held at Sangeetha Corner of Siddarthanagar that was inaugurated by Deputy Mayor C. Sridhar and Corporator Ashwini Ananthu. MCC Health Officer Dr. D.G. Nagaraj, Zonal Assistant Commissioner Harish and others were present.

In Zone-1, the competition was held at Muslim Burial Grounds compound at Chamundipuram, New Kantharaj Urs Road at Jayanagar in Zone 2, Ramaswamy Circle under Zone-3, P.K. Colony in Gokulam under Zone-4, Metagalli Government School in Zone-5, Yadavagiri Railway Bridge under Zone-6, CPC Polytechnic College near Fountain Circle under Zone-7 and near the public toilet at Kurimandi in Zone-8 .

Dr. Nagaraj said that these spots for wall painting were identified as maximum waste is dumped here on a day-to-day basis. "We want to make the public aware of cleanliness of surroundings that will enable the city to emerge as the Cleanest City. The paintings can be done for a week by anyone who is interested for a week. Prizes will be given by the MCC for the best painting," he said.

The awareness graffiti was done by participants spending several hours by using paints sponsored by the MCC and the paintings conveyed the messages related to cleanliness, use of toilet, reducing the use of single use plastic and conservation of forests. During this drive, the participants were made aware about social distancing norms and use of masks while carrying out social activities.

Dr. Nagaraj said that the MCC was doing everything to increase citizen's participation. "In the past Swachh Survekshan, we were not able to gain good marks in citizen participation. This year, however, things are looking good and till yesterday we have received over 51,000 votes," he explained.

Every day, the MCC recycles 130 MLD (million litres per day) of waste water and supplies them for various purposes.

"We have achieved the target of 30 percent of recycled water usage in the areas that come under city outskirts. We are striving to achieve the same target within the city. If we can use 30 percent of recycled water within the city, then a lot of drinking water can be saved," he added.

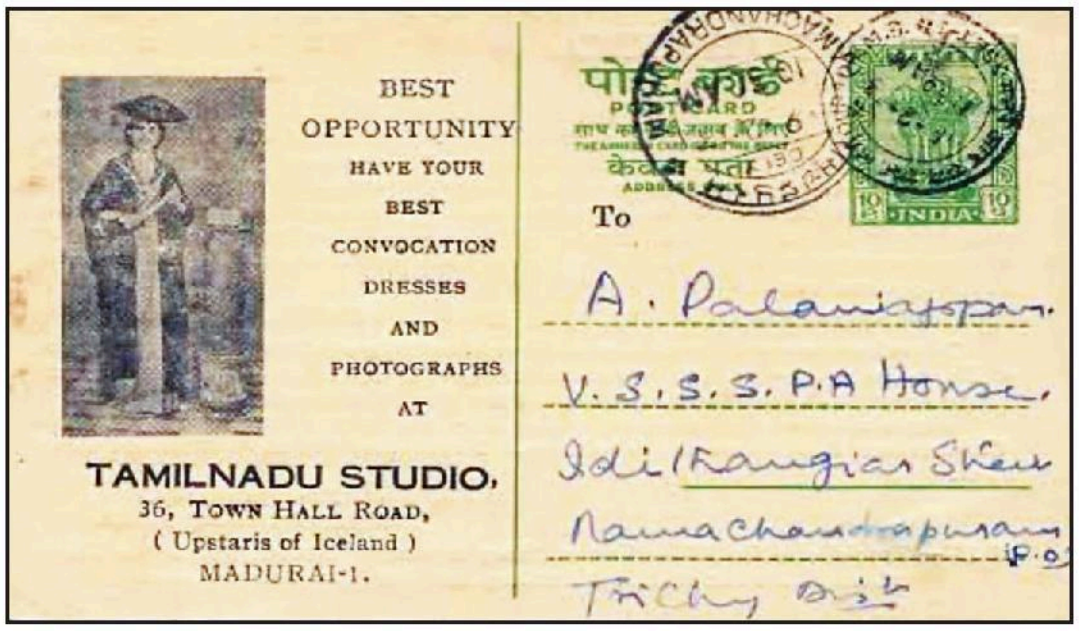
Of Privacy and Good Old Postcards !



These days, all around us we are hearing a great deal of hue and cry about what is happening to, or what is going to happen to WhatsApp, the social media platform, in the near future and what it will do to our own lives. People seem to be not only anxious but outraged that their lives are going to change completely once the free service provider changes the rules of its game to which we have been clinging as if to dear life itself ever since it came into our lives a bare ten years ago.

Already there's a huge and largely hyped-up scandal in the media about some leaked WhatsApp messages between their two very high-profile exchangers which is grabbing people's attention and time. This I feel is completely unnecessary because I see our perverse fascination with it only as a complete waste of our precious time which can be put to much better use. But the present advanced state of our communication through the social media has made us an addicted population of shameless eavesdroppers and voyeurs and we seem to be in great danger of transmitting this decade-old trait to the next generation if we do not correct ourselves now!

Nothing can be more harmful to our future and also to the image of civilised mankind because our social evolution had painstakingly trained us to keep our eyes, ears and hands too, off other people's private lives. Yes, that was one of the characteristics that once differentiated the polished from the unpolished amongst us in our society when discreetness too was one of the most important social graces. That is why we were trained to always knock before entering a curtained if not closed room, even in our own homes and never to read an open letter not meant for us, even if we found it tossed around the house carelessly. That is also why we as children were trained not to be seen hanging around when adults were conversing, or even to convey to anyone anything we had overheard which was not meant for us.

Now all that has gone for a toss. We have ourselves started flouting every one of the unwritten rules of discreetness that formed a vital part of our upbringing. That is why we now drool in open glee like dogs, when we hear malicious gossip and keep forwarding every one of the seemingly juicy messages that we receive on all social media platforms, unmindful of whether we are doing something useful or useless, let alone harmful to society and people's sensibilities and reputations.

There's a joke doing the rounds these days about the definition of a 'Straight Forward' person. A straight forward person is defined as someone who straight away forwards to all his or her contacts, whatever he or she receives on WhatsApp without pausing to think if it is good or bad! A very apt definition indeed. What we forward thus can make or mar someone else's life or build or break a home, which does not seem to matter at all to us anymore. So, the so-called social media has in a way become an anti-social media and we all know that today it is the fastest means of disrupting peace and harmony in our society.

With the flick of one mindless finger, we can today make someone's life miserable when by refraining from doing so we could have helped the same person to live in peace and happiness. Do think about it just for a little while and you'll understand what I mean. It is a well-known and accepted fact that today the social media has also become the means of much clandestine if not completely forbidden activity. People use it to keep in touch and communicate with each other not only for simple socialising but also for some very wrong and unholy purposes too.

And, it is exactly because of this that the clamour for privacy here has become so loud and demanding. Most people are scared that they will be robbed of their ability to do something wrong or mischievous discreetly, if their transmissions can be monitored by someone. They think that someone will be interested in and capable of monitoring or overhearing every thing that every one of us would be exchanging. A very unlikely scenario!

If we are not indulging in hate-mongering or in some kind of anti-social or anti-national activity, what is there to fear if a completely unconnected third party becomes privy to our exchanges? Even if it is a clandestine love affair that someone is involved in, I don't think that person has anything to fear because the service provider is certainly not going to search for and seek the person to whom it can leak this sensitive piece of information!

So, lovers, please rest assured that no robot and no computer, even in the near future, at least in the lifetime of your love affair, can match the multitude of clandestine love affairs that will be going on at any given time. They are simply no match for the power of Cupid!

Now let's go back in time to the not-too-distant era of the humble postcard that made its appearance in this world in the year 1870 and in our own country very soon after, in the year 1879. It was a humble scrap of thin cardboard that connected minds and hearts and families and businesses across the world and which was open to all who could lay their hands and eyes on it.

And, were we even a little curious to peep into it during the days of our love affair with it? No, I think not. We were not yet programmed for that kind of inquisitiveness then and so privacy was not a priority. People fearlessly wrote their hearts' feelings on it and hoped for days on end that a similar scrap would reward them with the reply they were seeking.

Yes, while talking of replies, there was a time when postcards even came with what was called a 'reply card' attached. It was a prepaid partner to the postcard that could be relied upon to gently urge the addressee to reward the sender with a prompt and painless reply! And, there was also a time not very long ago when the unlettered recipients of postcards could not read their own letters. That is when they would request their dear postman to do the reading for them. And, depending on how good the news was, like the arrival of a newborn baby or a betrothal they would reward the man with a coin or even a cup of hot coffee or tea.

But if the news was bad as it often happened, it was the humble soul in Khaki who would then console and comfort them that soon things would change and he would soon be bringing them some good news too!

Machine Learning Approach to detect COVID-19

Mysuru, Jan. 24- Dr. V.N. Manjunath Aradhya, Associate Professor and Head, Department of Computer Applications, JSS Science and Technology University, Mysuru, has developed a model for detecting COVID-19 from chest X-ray images.

This concept has an advantage of learning from a few samples. The model proposed is a multi-class classification model as it classifies images of four classes — pneumonia bacterial, pneumonia virus, normal, and COVID-19.

It has also been experimentally observed that the model has a superior performance over contemporary deep learning architectures.

The proposed concept is the first-of-its-kind in the literature and expected to open up several new dimensions in the field of machine learning.

This research article was recently accepted in one of the top tier Journal, Cognitive Computation, Springer. This work is a combined effort with Prof. D. S. Guru of University of Mysore (UoM) and Prof. Mufti Mahmud of Nottingham Trent University, UK.

Recently, Dr. Aradhya also published papers on understanding and analysis of COVID-19 which is co-authored with Prof. G. Hemantha Kumar, Vice-Chancellor, UoM, according to a press release from Dr. S. A. Dhanaraj, Registrar of the University.

Married girl eligible for Govt. job on compassionate ground

Bengaluru, Jan.24 (SSV)- The State Cabinet has taken an important decision of considering married daughter of a deceased Government employee for compassionate appointment. This was decided at the Cabinet meeting chaired by Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa here yesterday.

Briefing reporters after the meeting, Home and Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Basavaraja Bommai said the existing Cadre and Recruitment Rules of appointment on compassionate ground had been amended. Accordingly, if a deceased Government employee has only daughter, even if she is married, still she would be eligible to get the Government job on compassionate ground. Even adopted daughter can be given government job, he added.

It may be mentioned here that in December 2020, the Karnataka High Court had ruled that even a married daughter of a deceased Government employee can be considered for a compassionate appointment. It held that excluding a married daughter on such grounds was illegal and unconstitutional. Allowing the petition filed by Bhuavaneshwari V. Puranik, Justice M. Nagaprasanna struck down the word "unmarried" in Rule 2(1)(a)(i), Rule 2(1)(b) and Rule 3(2)(i)(c) of the Rules, 1996, as it is violative of Articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution.

Google has created a fireworks animation that plays on its search engine when you search for "Indian National Cricket Team" all this week. This animation was added by Google to celebrate the historic victory of India over Australia at the Brisbane Cricket Ground, also known as the Gabba. Though it is always pleasant to see India win test matches, this one was pretty special due to a number of factors.

First, the Australian Cricket team has never lost against any team at the Gabba in the last 32 years. The last team to defeat Australia in Brisbane was West Indies and it was way back in 1988. Moreover, the Indian team was missing many of its regular players, including Captain Virat Kohli, due to injuries and fatigue. However, that did not stop the Indian players to grab the legendary victory over Australia in their own fortress.

Though the odds were not in India's favour as the target was high and chase was difficult, the players finished the series with a win beating Australia and settling the leader-board at 2-1 (India-Australia). So, to celebrate this memorable win, Google shows fireworks over the search results when you search for "Indian National Cricket Team" or simply "Indian cricket team."

The fireworks are shown in the colours of the Indian National flag, popping off in various areas of the screen. The celebratory animation works both on the web platform, as well as on the Google app on iOS and Android devices. Following the addition of this animation, Google shared a tweet to let Indian users know about the "surprise" on its search engine

Even Google CEO, Sundar Pichai was quick to congratulate Indian team on their win. Pichai himself is a cricket fan and being a native of India made the cricket team's victory even more special for the Google CEO. We can say he was the one who came up with the 'fireworks' idea."One of the greatest Test series wins ever. Congrats India and well played Australia, what a series #INDvsAUS," tweeted Pichai.

Lions West hands over push carts

To mark its 40th charter anniversary, Lions Club of Mysore West handed over push carts to a churumuri vendor and a flower vendor in Gokulam yesterday. Picture shows Lions District Governor Ln. Ramesh, Club President Ln. Ali Vagh, Secretary Ln. Kulkarani, Ln. Paramjit Singh and other office-bearers with one of the beneficiaries Vanajakshi.

Raghulal & Co. distributes 22 push carts to street vendors

One of the beneficiaries who received the push cart from city's Pharmacist N. Raghavan recently.

N. Raghavan

Mysuru, Jan. 24 (SBD&SSV)- N. Raghavan, a social worker, environmentalist and proprietor of Raghulal & Co., a well-known medical shop in Mysuru, has donated 22 push carts to roadside vendors who do business in rain or shine.

As many as 13 fruit-vegetable vendors, who do business in front of Sri Venkataramana Temple in Vontikoppal and nine vendors of Udayaravi Road in Kuvempunagar have been given these push carts with a canopy. Each cart has the name of the beneficiary, product sold and name of the area Corporator.

Pharmacist Raghavan has been into philanthropy for many decades without any expectations. One of them has been planting saplings and providing tree guards.

Meanwhile, there is an interesting story behind his decision to provide push carts. Sometime ago, a lady with a baby in her arms was selling flowers in front of Vontikoppal Temple on push cart. At that time, a person came there and started abusing her but she was begging with him. After that man left, Raghavan went near her to know the reason.

Then she told him that the push cart had been taken on a daily rent of Rs.25 but she has not paid for last three days due to dull business. Moved by this, he came up with the idea of distributing push carts to needy people. He has plans to distribute similar carts to street vendors near the Deputy Commissioner's Office.
